Effective communication that displays empathy and warmth Safeguarding and duty of care, e.g. maintaining a healthy and safe environment, keeping individuals safe from physical harm Promoting anti-discriminatory practice by being aware of types of unfair discrimination and avoiding discriminatory behaviour. Information about a service user that a care worker may need to know: -Where they live —who they live with -planned treatment —religion and beliefs -next of kin —test results	Types of discriminatory behaviour? -making insulting comments in person or via social media -excluding -spreading rumours -taking part in hate crimes -making someone look silly in front of others -not giving out necessary information
The importance of a person-centred approach that takes into account an individual's needs, wishes and circumstances -History of person centred approach -Understanding of the approach -Benefits of the approach -The Health Foundation Information to be included in plan: -Recommended actions to improve health and wellbeing- actioned based on a person's physiological or lifestyle indicators	Recommended actions to improve health and wellbeing The importance of a person-centred approach that takes into account an individual's needs, wishes and circumstances. Giving up Smoking Losing Weight Becoming more social Being more active Eating more healthier Reducing alcohol intake Improving fitness levels
Applying care values 'The six Cs cover' Care-Care should be tailored to each person's needs and circumstances Compassion-Shows you understand what the individual is experiencing Competence-Shows how to protect and safeguard individuals from harm Communication-How to adapt to show how important information is shared Courage-Protect individuals by speaking up when something is wrong Commitment-Carrying out your duties to the best of your ability.	Working together and making mistakes -A good care provider will ensure everyone is working to the care values They will put their own feelings and emotions to one side, continue to work in a way that respects each of the care values. Staff training to keep everyone updated is vital Health care providers are keen to know that services users think about the experiences with staff, levels of satisfaction and positive or negative comments

Sources of support Formal: practical support from a GP monitoring blood pressure, peak flow or weight, advice such as strategies to help reduction of alcohol intake, information, in health promotion materials such as leaflets, emotional support, such as encouragement at slimming world, aids such as medicines and equipment, NHS prescriptions for smoking medicines. Informal: Friends & Family, aids such as Ikending your scales of gym equipment, practical support such as cooking you a healthy meal, emotional support such as family encouragement, advice on how to tackle a particular exercise. Voluntary: Support groups, charities. For example the charity cancer research UK runs sponsored 'Race for Life'. These provide, a good opportunity for exercising, a feel good factor, because you are raising money for charity at the same time	SMART - These five targets can be useful in your health and wellbeing plans. If a target is not SMART, it can give the individual an opportunity to make an excuse not to start the plan. Specific-The target should be clearly stated and should say exactly what you mean. Measurable- A specific amount must be stated so you can prove you have met your target. Achievable - You have to feel it is possible to achieve the target you have set or else you will probably give up. Realistic - You should be physically able to do the target. Time Related -The target must have a deadline, so you know when you need to achieve the target by.
Reviewing care values-Recognising what we do well and what we need to do to improve. Learning about our own skills-looking at the areas that we are good at, what you are able to do well and things that you find more difficult.	Receiving and using feedback Formal feedback-such as school reports or an observation in a work setting Informal feedback when are you chatting to colleagues about work events during the break or socially.
Potential obstacles -Emotional/ psychological -Motivation, low self-esteem, acceptance of current state -Time constraints — work and family commitments -Availability of resources — financial, physical, e.g. equipment -Unachievable targets — unachievable for the individual or unrealistic timescale	Emotional/psychological obstacles Lack of motivation-it can be hard to get started on any task, including those on a health well being improvement plan. Low self esteem-can affect most aspects of life, low self esteem can result in negative thoughts about themselves, feeling less able to take on the challenges life events Acceptance of current state
Time constraints. How can I find time to exercise? Get up 30 minutes earlier three times a week, take the stairs instead of the lift, set of earlier and park further from work to walk or jog last couple of miles.do seated exercises at the desk	Involving others in my fitness plans-go cycling with the holw family, go swimming at the health club whilst mum is doing chair based exercise class, go for a walk after an evening meal with your partner, drop children at their club and go for a run.

Availability of resources Financial resources—when designing a health and well-being plan, you need to think about the cost of each action, to avoid money becoming an obstacle to someone's health and well-being. If you were drawing up an exercise plan that includes a person joining the gym, you need to consider if they can afford the gym membership and provide details of free alternatives. It is important to point out in the plan how much things cost and how to access funding to help.	Physical resources-this could mean equipment. An obstacle that could occur in a person's plan is that they don't have the equipment that they need. What if I don't have access to weighing scales? -They can get weighed at their local health centre -Their local pharmacy maybe able to weigh them -They can estimate food quantities by using inexpensive measuring cups -They can estimate food quantities based on the weight or volume given on food packaging
Unachievable targets Meeting targets can be encouraging, but if those targets are achievable or unrealistic they are likely to become an obstacle to someone implementing their plan. Unrealistic timescales - if they are unrealistic individuals may think that there is no point in trying. Some time scales need to be longer to ensure success and give an individual confidence that they will succeed.	Why targets might not be achievable -Too ambitious -Not appropriate -Lack of understanding -Not in the right frame of mind -Timing -Fear of failure -Task is too big
Lack of support Supporting someone on an alcohol reduction plan -Do something together that does not involve alcohol -Offer to buy them a soft drink at the pub -Designate them as a driver for the evening -Listen to them if they suggest you should cut down -Respect them for wanting to improve their health and wellbeing	Diet-difficulties could occur if a person on a healthy eating plan is: -Surrounded by people eating takeaways and ready meals -fed by someone who is a good cook and gives generous helpings -tempted by chocolates and biscuits brought for special occasions -treated to regular meals out

Ability/disability and addiction -A person with learning difficulties may find it harder to understand, learn and remember new things. They may also find it hard to manage everyday tasks. It is important that sources of support are identified in their plan, these can help an individual understand what they need to do and learn how to make they required changes in their life.	Disability A person with a physical disability may come across obstacles in their health and wellbeing improvement plan if the plan has not be carefully thought through. An individual in a wheelchair would need a plan to ensure that all places that they visit are wheelchair accessible, and any exercise advice should be wheelchair friendly.
Barriers to accessing identified services -Some physical barriers when accessing services in a building -Location of bells and buzzers at entrance -adequate access to different floors -height of reception desk	How language barriers can be overcome -Information given in podcasts, braille, or large print, -sign language or hearing loops -Clear visual posters or videos -Clear signs in a number of languages
Positive definition looks at how physically fit and mentally stable a person is. You have a positive attitude towards health and well being. Negative definition looks at the absence of physical disease, physical illness and mental stress. You have a negative attitude if you base your attitude on not having anything wrong with you Holistic approach is the combination of physical health and social and emotional well being	Genetic inheritance Some conditions and diseases are inherited, which means they are passed down from one generation to the nextWe have 23 chromosomes in each of our body cells. Dominant-if a gene is dominant a child inheriting it from only one parent will have the condition, for example huntington's disease Recessive-if a gene is recessive a child would only develop the condition if it is inherited from both parents, for example cystic fibrosis or sickle cell anaemia.
Health and wellbeing Acute-Illness comes on quickly, is short term and can be cured. Chronic-Illness comes on gradually, is long term (more than 3 months) and generally can be treated but not cured. Short term-Is less than 6 months. Nutrition groups-Carbohydrate, fats, proteins, minerals, vitamins, water, fibre.	Long term- Is 6 months or more. If we eat more than we need-Obesity, heart disease, blood pressure, strokes, tooth decay, cancer. If we eat less than we need-Eating disorders, anaemia, heart failure, depression, stunted growth, tiredness, cancer
